

When # subjects or variable names is large, there is an option to highlight only those with a miss % above a threshold

